Vocal Biomarkers: diagnostics through human voice

Words not only hurt, but now they can heal! Emotion, revealed through the imperceptible characteristics in voices could be used to diagnose certain conditions including stress, depression and cardiovascular diseases. 'Beyond Verbal' have been investigating the links between sound and health for 21 years and are hopeful for this technology for the future and have produced an app.

February 17th, 2017 | Research | 0 Comments